FLORENCE WETZEL RELEASED FROM JAIL

Circuit Court Commissioner M. E. Richardson Orders Her Release
 After reviewing the case of Florence Wetzel again in the light of the fact that she is getting out of jail, she is getting out of jail. Florence was taken into custody on Thursday and lodged in the county jail.
 Mrs. Wetzel didn't like this at all because she was recently released from that place and she had just been released. She was sitting in a cell all day with no one to chat with.
 Through her attorney Edward Ryan the case was brought to the attention of Mr. P. Richardson, circuit court commissioner. He reviewed the case and ordered that Mrs. Wetzel be released.

BULLETIN RECEIVED FROM INSURANCE OFFICE IN REGARD ALLOTMENTS

The Rock County Council of Defense has received a bulletin from the War Risk Insurance office in regard to allotments by enlisted men and all those who are in the military service. The bulletin follows:
 Your attention is directed to the following changes in the administration of the War Risk Insurance law and allowances by the government.
 Every enlisted man in the active military or naval service is required to make a monthly allotment of $15.00 from his pay to his wife and children. To these compulsory allotments the government adds $5.00 a month for a motherless child and $15.00 for a wife without children, up to a maximum of $50.00.
 In addition to the compulsory allotments to his relatives of $5.00 a month and the government will add an allowance for them.
 Hereafter the Bureau of War Risk Insurance will pay allotments only when they carry with them family allowances and then only in the amount required to support such a family. All other allotments will be paid by the military or naval branch in which the man is enlisted.
 In other words the enlisted man, regardless of rank or pay, will now be allowed to allot only $15.00 to his wife and children and $5.00 to other dependant relatives through the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. If he desires to make further allotments to dependant relatives, he must make through the branch of the service in which he is enlisted.
 The result of this new system will be to speed up the delivery of checks to the relatives, but it may cause some confusion in that now the dependant will receive two checks, instead of one.
 All dependant of enlisted men are advised to wait until the end of the month for their checks for allotments and allowances. If it should be necessary to compound concerning these matters you are instructed to direct your letters to the Home-Section of the American Red Cross Chicago, Ill., and not to any Army or Navy officer. The matter will be expeditiously handled if letters are addressed as directed above.

PARTY OF JACKIES TO APPEAR IN MINIATURE BATTLESHIP AT FAIR

A traveling recruiting party of men from the United States army, composed of ten or fifteen soldiers, specially qualified for the purpose, are on a mammoth automobile truck on which a miniature battleship has been constructed, will be an added attraction at the fair at Janesville Aug. 12-16.
 The Jackies will be at the fair for the express purpose of giving information first hand to those men of military age who expect to be in some kind of service soon. But there will be "side attractions" in connection with the visit. Two or three interesting speakers an some other features will be carried by the enlisted men. The miniature battleship will measure 65 feet from stem to stern, will have mounted guns and be a "working model" of a gunner, first class; torpedoman, gunner's mate, mechanic, seaman and others will be in the party.
 Materials and supplies will be carried, so that the men can be enlisted at the fair, in cities, towns and villages, or even by the roadside—in fact, wherever the big truck can go. Those waiting to join the navy will be given preliminary tests, and then be sent to Milwaukee at the expense of the government for final examination. This many young men who have not had an opportunity of visiting a recruiting station or who have been unable to get all the information they want about the navy, will have it brought almost to their very doors.
 The party expects to reach Janesville on Monday, Aug. 12, and will remain in Janesville until the close of the fair. The party expects to be at the big fair at Waterloo, Sunday, Aug. 19, and at the fair at Hills, Cambridge, Port Atkinson and Koshkonong. From the Janesville fair it will go to the fair at Stevens Point, visiting Stoughton, Oregon, Madison, Portage, Westfield and Plainfield enroute.

CASHED PENSION CHECK, ROBBED SHORTLY AFTER; CASHED PENSION CHECK;

William Dring, a man about seventy years of age, who has a considerable knowledge of the law, and who is a member of the city council, was arrested on a charge of vagrancy.
 No sooner was the charge read to him than he began to tell the judge of the many deeds of his past life. He started out with saying that he worked for the city of Chicago for twenty-three years, and that he was a member of the city council. He also stated that he was robbed while enroute to Janesville, and that upon arrival here he did not have a cent of money.
 When questioned as to his actions he stated that he had been working on a farm, and that he was arrested while sleeping in a barn. He claimed that he was given permission to repose there and he assured the judge that he had never did anything wrong in his life.
 Judge Maxfield informed him that if he would return to the farm where he had been working, or if he would get out of town, that he would be dismissed. He was very emphatic in assuring the judge that he would get back to the farm at once.

BROTHER OF FORMER PLAY SUPERVISOR IS WOUNDED BY SHELL

Alexander Bodenstein, brother of Miss Margaret Bodenstein, director at the Jefferson school playgrounds during the month of July, was wounded in the leg during a battle drive, in which he was sleeping was blown up; but he managed to dig his way out and had to remain in a shell-hole all night. The comfort kit which hung at the head of his bunk was destroyed as was his gun, which was laying beside him.
 The wounded man is now in base hospital No. 42. He is a member of Company A, Sixth Engineers and has been in France since last December. He is a Madison boy and belongs to the company which has been especially praised for its work during the drive.
FORMER LOCAL MAN WILL ENTER ARMY
 Charles Mills of Richmond, Indiana, formerly of this city, will leave soon to enter army service. Originally placed in Class Four because he was engaged in a vital industry, he voluntarily resigned his position and informed the board of place him in Class One, so that he might join the army.
 Mr. Mills, who has been foreman of the finishing department of the Atlas Underwear company for several years, is at present visiting in the city with his family on Park avenue.
 Overseas: Luther Glass has arrived safely in France according to word received here today.

CHICAGO MARKETS
 Chicago, Aug. 10.—Iowa is expected to lead hog trade next week and a reaction in prices is probable. Chicago has worked out of line with Omaha and Sioux City, which have had normal receipts, this condiction being calculated to draw hogs this way.

 A run of 40,000 on Monday will cause no surprise and as the market is nervous that number might cause a sharp break.
 Traders are desirous of avoiding a clash with the government, which is now in control of the market and the bearish attitude of packers is not concealed.
 Rain has relieved the drought situation in the Missouri river territory, but in probable, cattle will be marketed freely.
 There is a general disposition to take present prices, which may cause congestion and aggravate trading conditions.
 Cattle have been selling abnormally high and another decline of $1 per cwt. on the rank and file would cause no surprise.
 Eastern shipping concerns were out of the market yesterday, even out of the market yesterday, even good cattle being bought under protest.

Western markets have received nearly 300,000 cattle during the week. Kansas City's quota being about 80,000 and that run is repeated next week, trouble will be due.
 New records have been made this week on all classes of live stock, prime beef selling at $18.50, hogs $26.05, sheep $14.75, and lambs $18.25.
 Closing prices were the lowest of the week on all grades of cattle, hog values showed a disposition to slip and sheep were 25c under the high spot; but lambs held at the crest of the recent advance.
 Good Hogs Scarce.
 Country buyers report increasing difficulty in getting good hogs. At Sioux City and Omaha this week it has been a crop of heavy packing sows, packers being able to buy little else.
 Bulk of western cattle sold at $8.50@11.50 a year ago, against $12@16 this week. The top this week was $17.40, against $12.75 a year ago. $5.50 two years ago and $8.80 in 1915.
 Declines range from 25c to 75c for the week, middle grades suffering most.
 Rains in many sections of the country stimulated demand for feeding cattle. Kansas City's glut being whittled down to small proportions.
 Veals were very steady.
 Choice to prime steers, $18.15@18.75.
 Good to choice yearlings, 17.75@18.40.
 Good to choice heavy, 17.25@18.25.
 Fed to good yearlings, 14.75@16.75.
 Heavy western grassers, 16.25@17.25.

FLUFF RUGS FROM WORN CARPETS
 We are producing rugs made from old carpets of every description, which in quality and style are as perfect as the latest machinery and skilled workmanship can make them. As to durability of such rugs, we feel safe in saying that they will wear as long as the original carpet.
 Therefore it would be economy as well as good judgment not to waste your old and worn carpets, but to send them to us and have them made into a handsome rug.
 We make rugs from Ingrain, body Brussels, rag carpets, chenille curtains, tapestry Brussels, velvet and moquette carpets.
 Remember we are specialists in the rug business. We also clean rugs and carpets.
 Our prices are most reasonable. Send mail or phone for our price list.

NOTICE

HOUSEWIVES of JANESVILLE

The Government has requested Janesville retail business men making deliveries to reduce delivery to one each day. It is a patriotic duty and we willingly comply.

The housewives of Janesville are requested to co-operate with us by placing their orders as indicated below:

The city is divided into two delivery zones--one morning, the other, afternoon. There will be an eight o'clock and a ten o'clock delivery each morning, and a two o'clock and a four o'clock each afternoon as follows:

8 A. M. DELIVERY—West of River to Chatham Street, bounded by Elizabeth Street on the north; thence south on Chatham to Pleasant Street, thence east on Pleasant Street to Center Avenue; South on Center Avenue to the river. This delivery will include South Washington Street.

10 A. M. DELIVERY—Will cover that section on the East side of River bounded on the North by Glen Street to Milton Avenue; thence on Milton Avenue to Walker Street, thence on Walker to Garfield Avenue; south on Garfield to Carrington Street; west on Carrington to Main Street.

2 P. M. DELIVERY—Will embrace all that portion of the city West and South of the river not covered by the 8 A. M. delivery.

4 P. M. DELIVERY—Will cover all that portion East of the River not embraced in the 10 A. M. delivery.

People living in the morning zone must place their orders before 7:00 and 9:00 to insure delivery. People living in the afternoon zone must place their orders before 1:00 and 3:00.

The War Industries Board, Conservation Division, notifies all retail merchants as follows:

1. "To restrict deliveries to one trip a day over each route.
2. "To eliminate special deliveries and restrict the privilege of returning merchandise to not more than three days.
3. "To organize cooperative systems wherever possible and especially in the medium and small sized cities and towns.

"The request for one delivery a day on each route applies to all stores that maintain any form of delivery service including dry goods, clothing, or department stores and grocery, meat and provision stores. Under one delivery a day over each route, a delivery vehicle may leave the store twice or three times a day but over a different route on each trip. Not more than one delivery a day made to any one section of the city or town. Delivery companies, whether co-operative or individually owned, are also requested to make only one trip a day over each route."

This is a help-win-the-war measure relieving, as it does, men for essential work.

Phone or ask your dealer for further information or the Chamber of Commerce--Phones Rock County 123, Bell 22.

REMEMBER One delivery a day begins MONDAY, AUGUST 19th

Quit your kicking, old man, it's not any use
To fight Mr. Trouble with jawbone abuse.
If you want to succeed it's not any way
To go around kicking and wading your day.
If you can't make the hill a-run-in on high,
Just throw her in low and never say die.
The first in the start may finish the last,
So keep on a-pluggin'; don't hurry too fast.
Keep smilin'; don't worry, you'll make it all right
If you just keep a-tryin' with all your might.
Don't waste time kickin', but throw off your coat
And dig in and root, like an Arkansas shot.
If you think with old Fort and you have a rare pull
You're kickin' yourself with a poor line of bull.
If you want to make good you have to go through
A stiff course of trainin' before you will do.
So cut out your kickin' and turn off the bile
And jump in and hustle with a song and a smile.
—The Gillette Blade Magazine.

There's a world of good advice wrapped up in this little poem, which is worth considering. The good Lord provided all of us with a tongue, and then turned us loose to use it as our sweet will dictated. And the most of us improve the unrestricted opportunity offered.

Trouble is a common inheritance. It comes to all of us, sooner or later, during our pilgrimage, and the notion is popular, in the minds of many people that they have more than their share, perhaps they do. We are not all constituted alike. And what seems trouble to one man, passes over the next one, like water from a duck's back. A man in middle life,—back to his old home for a visit, after an absence of twenty years in the mountains, where he was obliged to live on account of his health—was asked by a friend how he was. "Oh!" he said, "I'm all right, there's nothing the matter with me but Bright's disease and tuberculosis."

That's the spirit that meets trouble with a brave heart. Plenty of real trouble, the kind that would put many of us under the sod, yet meeting it with courage and sublime heroism. The real troubles of life are not the troubles which annoy us the most. The man who has a wooden leg soon adjusts himself to changed conditions, and seldom thinks about what he has lost, but the troubles which worry us the most are the imaginary troubles which never come to us.

The mind which God has given us is a peculiar thing. Sometimes it works and sometimes it sticks, but it usually runs at high speed when any kind of trouble is in sight. The most of us are blessed with a good imagination,—which is a part of the minds equipment,—and we often work it overtime in anticipating trouble. Some one said, a time ago, that the worries which bother us most are over troubles which never occur, and it is true, crossing bridges before they are in sight, and counting diseases which never come to us.

The harvest which is so abundant this year, is a surprise to many people who worry from seed time to harvest, and who spend much valuable time in cussing and discussing the weather. The good Lord is never short of help in making the weather, and many of us are of the opinion that we could improve His methods. It is well for humanity that some things are nailed down so tight that they can't be disturbed.

Occasionally a man becomes so egotistical that he believes himself to be right, and everybody else to be wrong. The writer met such a man the other day, who had passed middle life traveling around in circles and never getting anywhere. He had a tongue which never stood still, but he talked in circles, going in and coming out the same hole, until the familiar paths which environed him were worn smooth, and the neighbors knew where he would land, whenever he started out.

To his distorted vision everything and everybody was wrong. He had tried all of the political parties and landed on the outside, a kicking orphan. The churches were no better, and if he ever went to heaven he wanted a reserved seat in some quiet corner where he could observe and kick to his heart's content. The world was so radically wrong that he had never been able to make a decent living, and he is still going strong as a kicker. If there is any kind of trouble that his imagination could not discover, it would be difficult to locate.

You have seen such men, but thank God they are exceedingly rare. This is the best world that we know anything about. So good that it is a joy to live in it, and so full of good and helpful people that they are found at every turn of the road. The atmosphere of hopeful optimism which prevails, is like a tonic to every normal mind, and the man who fails to recognize and appreciate it should be ostracized and permitted to herd by himself.

But the troubles referred to in the introduction, are real troubles, and the courage to meet them often taxes to the limit of endurance. The sorrow which comes to a home represents real trouble. And when the bread winner is taken away and poverty looms large in the near distance, worry and anxiety lend a hand, and brave hearts are tested as never before.

The failures which cross the pathway of life of so many of us, cause real trouble, and after doing the best we know it is often hard to understand why they occur. The mother whose boy is "over there" may have sent him away with a smile and cheerful goodbye, but her heart is heavy and back of the smile are unshed tears which trickle down the cheek in the solitude of her lonely home. Yet she would not call him back because his country needs him.

Some good people entertain the false notion that temptation is a sin, and occasionally a deluded soul imagines that a state of grace and purity attains, which is free from the tempter's subtle influence. This notion represents a species of religious fanaticism which borders on insanity and its victims will usually bear watching. The good Lord never intended that a few of us should occupy pinnacles of self-righteousness, where we could waste our time in viewing the common herd with pity and alarm.

There are no blessings so great for the development of mental or moral strength as temptation and trouble, because the courage and fortitude to meet them determines the fibre of the character within us. Down on one of the high bluffs in the Mississippi valley stands an oak tree which was old and scarred with the marks of time, fifty years ago. It stands there today, a lone sentinel, which can be seen for miles across the table lands of the foot hills. If the old tree could write its history it would tell of many a fierce fight with storm and tempest, of bowing low before the blast, and then springing back to renew the struggle, and of the victory which came with resistance, until at last the storm had no terrors.

This old tree represents life at its best. No hot house existence, but standing out bravely and meeting the issues with sublime courage. It is pleasant to be in the shade on a hot summer day, and watch the clouds and the shadows as they drift lazily by, but it never gets us anywhere. The boy out there in the sun plowing out the corn and defying nature, comes to the end of the row and as he turns the old horse around for the return trip, and stops to wipe the sweat from his face with his sleeve, the tan which he has accumulated makes him look like an African, but he is putting on brawn and muscle which will prove valuable assets in the years to come.

It never pays to kick and kicking at trouble is about as satisfactory as kicking at a stone. The life which approaches the ideal is a life of work, and the era through which we are passing is the busiest era that the world has ever known, different from any other, because individual interests are forgotten, and every thought concentrated in the one great issue of winning the war. As a nation we are face to face with a real trouble, but we are meeting it with courage and intelligence, and with all the great resources we possess. There can be but one outcome, for the issues involved will admit of no defeat. The glad day of victory will be a day of jubilee around the world and the peace secured will be an abiding peace.

THEIR RULING PASSION. Ignatz Jacob Jacobowski.

Once a Russian of some power, Kln of Grand Duke Heresahowski Ivan Ruric Romanowski.

Languished in a lonely tower. Placed there by the Bolsheviks.

Stripped of all his worldly wealth. In that tower camp and leaky.

Where the rats were wild and squeaky. Ignatz worried for his health.

Then he saw how Leon Trotsky. In an earnest search for self.

Had a large cool million gotchy. And he saw a "Will" look shoky.

At the looking game myself. So he broke out of his prison.

Grew large whiskers on his cheeks. When a few round suns had risen.

A complete disguise was his. And he joined the Bolsheviks.

Ignatz looted and he looted. He robbed gimmlis, stores and banks.

When he'd stored away a million. He aspired to half a billion.

Never once did he say "Thanks." He was rich beyond all measure.

In his own steam yacht he sat. He invoked his wife's treasure.

And he murmured oft with pleasure. "Well, the kaiser won't get that."

ROScoe RIBBLESNITCH'S STRATEGY.

Roscoe Ribblesnitch, the eminent asafedita manufacturer, and his wife Rubina were returning from a dinner party given by Mrs. Newbridge.

During the entire drive, Rubina Ribblesnitch sobbed convulsively, fling the sounds in vain did Roscoe attempt to comfort her. She merely pushed him aside and muttered hoarsely, "Brute!"

But when the front door had closed upon them and the butler had retired to his own side of the keyhole, Mrs. Ribblesnitch turned fiercely upon her husband.

"Now," she cried, "Explain yourself, viper! What do you mean ruining absolutely ruining, the foundations of a social position which I, too, have labored with—Oh, dear me!—with care for many years?"

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed Roscoe Ribblesnitch, genuinely grieved, "what do you mean? I tried to remember all those instructions you gave me before we started. I didn't drink too much one's train. I didn't step on too much one's train. I didn't step on too much one's train."

"Wretch!" shrieked his wife. "What more could you do? Didn't I sit opposite you at dinner? Didn't I watch you as you played with your coffee spoon and bent it and turned it and finally tied it into a knot?"

"Don't you know that those spoons were presented to Mrs. Newbridge-Swipes by the Dink-Rumjabs? What will she think when she finds one of them bent in a knot?"

"Well, never mind that again. We'll never be ruined there again. We'll never be ruined there again. We'll never be ruined there again."

"No, my love," he said, "we are not ruined by said. Too well I know that I should never be able to break the habit you complained of. I cannot stop fingering my silver. So yesterday before I started for the Newbridge-Swipes I provided myself with a pewter spoon. It was that with which I was toying. The spoon belonging to the hostess is intact. Rubina Ribblesnitch threw herself into the arms of her spouse. "My own clever darling!" she said.

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

REAR ADMIRAL WILLIAM S. BENSON.

William S. Benson was officially named as America's ranking admiral by Secretary of the Navy Daniels recently.

The promotion was not a surprise. Benson was not a promotion. Secretary Daniels simply approved an appointment made by the judge advocate general of the navy, fixing the order of precedence of admirals.

Benson now holds the chief post under the naval act of August, 1916, which places him "next to the admiral."

Benson is a hard-headed business man in a navy uniform. He is polite, unobtrusive, but a stickler for detail and system.

His office at Washington is like a central telephone station, into which all the wires of naval activity run. Every cablegram from the world and the scope of America's European fleet, goes to Benson.

He is to the navy what the chief of staff is to the army and his decisions are virtually final.

The war games in which the battle fleet and other craft participated before America's entry into the war were initiated by Benson, who provided the scope of previous plans so they included possibilities of real war.

When war between this nation and Germany became an actual fact, Benson was requested to draw up plans for protecting the Atlantic coast and the acquisition of ships that were needed.

It was thought, it would take a month to complete these plans. Benson went to his desk and brought forth completed plans which he had worked out months before the open declaration of hostilities.

Benson was born in Saco, Me., in 1855 and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1877, became an ensign in 1881 and was a rear admiral May 11, 1915.

but when she discovered the lowly birth of the hero she tried to draw back. His innate goodness and deeds of valor caused her to change her mind, and a most effective scene closed the story. Castle scenes, where hundreds of people are employed, are used in producing the effect, and the settings are designed to give the audience a feeling of the great beauty of the picture. It is by far the greatest picture in which she has appeared. Draft 268 was produced at the Myers theater on Saturday, and was a stirring, patriotic play. On Sunday was seen Earle Williams in "The Seal of Silence." This was a play in which Earle Williams, as the hero, was sorely tried by circumstances to break the vow of silence. The careful and finished dramatic art of Earle Williams, who played the lover, was given full scope.

The two reels of films, gotten out by the government in formation, bureau, is shown by the Apollo theater on Thursday. Free seats are reserved for those who do not care to remain for the whole show on that afternoon matinee. The patriotic play, "Berlin via America," was given at this theater the first three days of the week. It dealt principally with the spy system which Germany maintains, both in this country and abroad. The hero, Francis Ford, did not want to go to war but when he was in it, distinguished himself by his valor and bravery. An orphan girl whom he found and befriended became a Red Cross nurse in the war zone. Stirring battle scenes and other thrilling episodes made up a very good picture.

MYERS THEATRE"There She Goes"

"There She Goes," the merry musical play which has been creating theatrical history in the East in spite of unsettled conditions comes to the Myers theatre, Wednesday, August 14, with every prospect of breaking a few records. Many successful musical plays have been sent on tour by Mr. Harvey Orr, but the coming attraction promises to lead them all. The organization is headed by Harvey Orr, two of America's best singing comedians, and in support will be found Martha Carver, soprano prima donna, Al Knight, Marion Weaver, Kenneth Christie, Silence Tower and a bewitching array of twenty-five gorgeously gowned beauties in the chorus that can really sing and dance. There are three smashing acts and four dazzling scenes, taking the audience from a Long Island dreamy golf club to beautiful dreamy Hawaii. The Orr Brothers' experience with a "fame" automobile is taking the audience to the whirling dancing of the Le Boys, and the Imperial Male quartette are featured. Of the twenty song numbers the most popular are: "There She Goes," "An Absent-Minded Man," "When You're Twenty-One," "Hawaiian Moon," "Some Girl in the Summer Time," "To the Music of the Old Jagg Band," and "Sometime, If Dreams Come True."

CHANDLER SIX
Famous For Its Marvelous MotorA Great Automobile
At Moderate Cost

NEARLY fifty thousand Chandler owners know how powerful and responsive, how economical, how dependable and enduring the Chandler car is.

"Greatest of all light sixes" never more accurately described the Chandler than it does today. If you wished to search the whole market with minute comparisons and tests this would be your answer, too.

In the ownership of a Chandler Six you will possess a really great automobile—great from the standpoint of mechanical excellence and daily performance under all road conditions, great from the standpoint of economy in operation and maintenance. Thousands of Chandler owners tell of gasoline mileage of fifteen to seventeen miles per gallon. Seven thousand to nine thousand miles per set of tires is the usual Chandler report. Owners and dealers alike say the service upkeep of the Chandler car is much less than that of other good cars which they have owned or sold.

Beautifully designed and finished bodies are mounted on the famous Chandler chassis.

PETEY DINK—ANYBODY CAN FIND A DEFECTIVE SHELL.

Gunner Depew

By ALBERT N. DEPEW

Ex-Gunner and Chief Petty Officer U. S. Navy—Member of the Foreign Legion of France—Captain Gun Turret, French Battleship Cassard—Winner of the Croix de Guerre.

Copyright, 1918, by Betty and Britton Co., Through Special Arrangement With the Famous Matthew Adams Service.

At Schweinfurt and Nuremberg, I must admit that the Germans had us pretty badly baffled, but at Dulmen the prisoners were entirely different. Dulmen was the receiving camp for the whole western front, and the prisoners there got to be pretty tough eggs, as far as Fritz was concerned, before they had been in camp many days. They thought nothing of picking a fight with a sentry and giving him a good battle, even though he was armed with rifle and bayonet. We soon learned that unless his pals are around a German will not stand by his arguments with his fists. In other words, if he can outtalk you, he will beat you up, but if he cannot, it is a case of "Here comes Helme going back."

The Russian prisoners at Dulmen were certainly a miserable looking bunch. They spent most of their time wandering around the Russian barracks, hunting for rotten potato peelings and other garbage, which they would eat. When they saw Fritz throw out his swill, they would dive right through the barbed wire and after another, and their hands and face and clothes were always torn from it. It was unhealthy to stand between the Russians and their garbage pail—they were so specky that nothing stopped them.

One morning, just after barley-coffee time, I came out of the barracks and saw an Australian arguing with the sentry. I was not only curious, but anxious to be a good citizen, as they say, so I went up and slung an ear at them. The Australian had asked Fritz what had been done with the flag that the Huns were going to fly from the Eiffel tower in Paris.

That was too deep for Fritz, so the Australian answered it himself. "Don't you know, Fritz? Well, we have no blankets, you know."

Still the sentry did not get it. So the Australian graciously explained to me—so that Fritz could hear—that the Germans had no blankets and were using the flag to wrap their cold feet in.

This started a fight, of course—the German idea of a fight, that is. The sentry, being a very brave man for a German, blew his whistle very loudly, and sentries came from all directions. So we beat it to the Australian's barracks, and there I found the second American in the camp. He was a barber named Stinson, from one of the Western states. He had heard I was there as well as the Boston man in the Canadian service, but he had been too sick to look us up, and in fact did not care what happened, he was so miserable. He had been wounded several times, and died in a day or two, I never knew how he came to be in the Australian service.

Those two and myself were the only Americans I knew of in this prison camp—whether in Canadian, Australian or French service. The other two had been captured in uniform, so there was no chance of their being released.

Dulmen was very near the Dutch border and as it was quite easy to get out of the camp attempts at escape were frequent. Most of those who ran away were brought back, though. The Germans were so easy on those who tried to run away that I almost thought they were encouraging them. One chap was doing his ten days in the guardhouse for the sixth time while I was there—that is, he had just about completed his period of detention. He claimed that the sixth time he had really got across the border and was arrested in a little town by the Dutch authorities and turned over to the Germans. That is against the law in most countries, but he swore it was the truth. I am not so sure, myself. He got away for the seventh time while I was at Dulmen and was not returned.

Ten days in the guardhouse is not such a light punishment after all, because water three times a day is all the prisoner received during that time, but it is pretty mild compared to some of the things the Huns do.

One morning I thought for sure I was going to get it. I was just fed up on the whole business and sick of doing nothing but suffer. So I strolled along, sticking my head into barracks doors, sometimes trying to have a talk, other times trying to pick a fight. It was all one to me; I just wanted something to do. I found what I wanted, all right.

I had quite a talk with a sentry in front of a barracks. It must have lasted three-quarters of an hour. He did not know what I was calling him, and I did not know what he was calling me. I could have handled him all right, but another sentry came up on my blind side and grabbed me and the talk was over.

They dragged me to the commander of the camp and he instructed them to give me a bath. So they took me to the bathhouse, where I was stripped and lashed. All the time they were whipping me I was thinking what a joke it was on me, because I had been looking for excitement and had got more than I wanted, so I laughed and the Huns thought I was crazy sure.

I was dumped into a vat of hot water and at the same time my clothes were given a boiling, which was good for them.

Then I was forced into my wet clothes and marched back to the barracks. This bath and the stroll through the snow in wet clothes just about did for me. Nowadays, when I sit in a draft for a second and catch cold, I wonder that I am still alive to catch it. Having gone through Dixmude and the Dardanelles and the sinking of the Georgic and four German prison camps and a few other things—I shall probably trip over a hole in a church carpet and break my neck. That would be my luck.

There were all the diseases you can think of in this camp, including black cholera and typhus and somebody was always dying. We had to make coffin from any wood we could find. So it was not long before we were using the dividing boards from our barracks, pieces of flooring and, in fact, the walls of the barracks. The officers were quartered in corrugated iron barracks, so they had to borrow wood from us for their coffins. We would make the box and put the body in it, give it as much service as we could, in the way of prayers and hymns, and put it away in a hole near the barracks. There was so much of it that a single death passed unnoticed.

One morning the German sentries came to our barracks—they never came singly—and told us that an officer was going to review the prisoners and ordered us to muster up, which we did. I was the last man out of the barracks and on account of my wounds I was slower than the rest.

You understand I had had no medical treatment except crepe-paper bandages and water; my wounds had been opened by swimming from the Georgic to the Moewe and they had been put in terrible shape in the coal bunkers. On account of the poor food and lack of treatment they had not even started to heal. Incidentally, the only cloth bandages that any of us had were what we would tear from our clothes and I have seen men pick up an old dirty rag that someone else had had around his wound for a long time and bandage his own wounds with it.

So it was all I could do to drag myself along. The officer noticed that I was out of line and immediately asked my name and nationality. When he heard "American" he could not say enough things about us and called me all the swine names he could think of. I was pretty thin at this time and getting thinner, so I figured I might just as well have it out before I starved. Besides, I thought, he ought to know that we are not used to being bawled out by German swine in this country.

So I told him so. And I said that he should not bawl Americans out, because America was neutral. He then said that as America supplied food and munitions to the allies she was no better than the rest.

Then I said: "Do you remember the Deutschland? When she entered Baltimore and New London she got all the cargo she wanted, didn't she?"

"Yes."

"Well, if you send over your merchant marine, they will get the same." For that answer he gave me ten days in the guardhouse. He did not like to be reminded that their merchant marine had to dive under to keep away from the Linneys.

I admit I was pretty flip to this officer, but who would not be when a sick German swine officer bawled him out?

It was while I was in the guardhouse that Mr. Gerard, the American ambassador, visited the camp. He came to this camp about every six months, as a rule. Even in the German prison camps the men had somehow got information about Mr. Gerard's efforts to improve the terrible surroundings in which the men lived. Some of the men at Dulmen had been confined in various other camps and they told me that when Mr. Gerard visited these camps all that the men did for a week or so afterward was to talk about his visit and what he had said to them. We knew Mr. Gerard had got the Germans to make conditions better in some of the worst hell-holes in Germany and the men were always glad when he came around. They felt they had something better to look forward to and some relief from the awful misery.

Mr. Gerard was passing through the French barracks and a man I knew there told him there was an American there. The Germans did not want him to see me, but he put up an argument with the commanding officer and they finally said he could interview me. I never was so glad to see anyone as I was to see him. The picture is still with me of him coming in the door. We talked for about an hour and a half, I guess, and then he got up to go and he said I would hear from him in about three weeks. Just think what good news that was to me!

They let me out of the guardhouse and I celebrated by doing all the damage to German sentries that I could do. The men in the camps went wild when they learned that Ambassador Gerard was there, for they said he was the only man in Germany they could tell their troubles to. The reason was that he was strong for the men, no matter what nationality, and put his heart into the work. I am one of those who cannot say enough good things about him. Like many others, if it had not been for Mr. Gerard I would be kaput by now.

Increase in Fare
Madison.—An increase of passenger fare to four cents is asked by the La Crosse and South Eastern, a railroad operating between La Crosse and Viroqua. A hearing was held on the matter by the Railroad Commission, Friday.

Dinner Stories

A clergyman was grieved to find his services for men were poorly attended. He expressed his regret to the verger one evening when, as usual, they were the only two at the meeting.

"That's just what I've said to 'em over an' over again," said the verger, consolingly. "I sez to 'em: 'Look at me, I sez: look at me. I goes to all them services.' I sez, 'an' wot 'arm does they do me?'"

"Where are you going to lecture tonight, Mr. Wise?" inquired Mr. Wise of his wife, a prominent equal suffrage lecturer.

"I am to address the Cooks' and Housemaids' Union," she responded. Her husband laughed.

"Surely they have as much right to vote as any other woman," his wife began indignantly.

"I am not denying that, my dear," mildly explained Mr. Wise; "but it is a waste of time. Don't you realize that a cook or housemaid never reads a magazine enough in one position to be entitled to a vote?"

Mrs. Wise, recognizing the wisdom of this, canceled her engagement by telephone.

Two pals, both recently wedded, were comparing the merits of their wives.

"Ah, yes," said George, who was still very much in love, "my little woman is an angel! She couldn't tell a lie to save her life!"

"Lucky bouncer!" said Samuel, sighing. "My wife can tell a lie the minute I get it out of my mouth."

"Now, Rastus," said the captain, "don't you want to make your will before you go over?"

"Will, nuthin, sah! De only will Ise worryin' about is will I come back!"

Tales of the Friendly Forest

As soon as the Jay Bird got into the automobile he began to sneeze, although I told you in the last story he'd promised not to. And oh, dear! He sneezed so hard that off went his hind end! Lucky's old wedding grove hat, and then of course the old gentleman rabbit had to get out and look for it, for it had rolled into a hole where a big woodchuck lived. And as soon as he saw that alk he put it on and looked at himself in the old mirror. He saw a rabbit and Uncle Lucky saw him and he pulled the hat off his head and said:

"How dare you wear my wedding hat?"

"You should be put in jail for that. So hand it back to me I say. Or you the damages will pay."

And this so frightened the woodchuck that he asked his wife to hand the hat to Uncle Lucky and to beg him not to talk that way. "Then don't forget next time to be careful what you do with other people's things," said the old gentleman rabbit, and he marched out of the woodchuck's house with his head up in the air like a general in the United States Army.

"And now that I've gotten back my old wedding grove hat, I have to ask you, Uncle Lucky, to hand it back to me. So that if you sneeze again my hat won't come off." So the Jay Bird turned around and looked over his back at the automobile until his eyes got so full of dust that he couldn't breathe.

"Please let me out," he groaned, for his throat was full of dust. "Then don't forget next time to be careful what you do with other people's things," said the old gentleman rabbit, and he marched out of the woodchuck's house with his head up in the air like a general in the United States Army.

FAST HORSES WILL RACE AT LOCAL FAIR

Janesville Fair This Year Will Have Cream of Racing Horses Entered in Races.
(By D. W. Watt.)

Yesterday morning I got up with the sun and was soon at the fair grounds, where I saw the great trotters and pacers receiving their finishing touches for the great races at the fair next week. For the benefit of those who might not know what a fast horse can do, I will say that they are wise ones who sit on fence rail and watch every move made by the fast trotters and pacers. They always know what every horse can do; they know the ones that can score the fastest, they know the ones that can finish on the home stretch, and they know the ones that can win the day. I want to say right here that at no time since what is known as "the Good Old Days" has there been so many horses on the Janesville track waiting for the fair to open next week.

On Wednesday next, when John C. Nichols calls for the 2:10 pace, according to the entry list nineteen of the fastest pacers in the country will respond. This will be one of the fastest and best races. I will remember a remark made more than twenty years ago by George Fuller of Kentucky, one of the most famous drivers of his day. After winning a hard fought race Mr. Fuller said: "I have won the race, but it will be many a day before this horse will be able to lower his mark, for I have always known when a horse got a record over the Janesville track it was hard to beat, as it is one of the fastest tracks in the country." At the fair grounds on Wednesday there will be fifty-two entries, in all, for the 2:10 pace, and it will certainly furnish one of the highest class days of racing that Janesville has seen for many years.

On Thursday there are twenty-three entries in the 2:24 trot, and should they all elect a start it is likely the association will have to make two groups, as it would be impossible to start all these at one time. In the 2:12 pace there are twenty entries and among these are many able to slip several seconds below their record, and all think the week in the different classes there are many trotters and pacers among the highest class in the business. As the entry list for the three days is over 150 in number, the fair will certainly be three days of racing at the fair next week that will be worth going miles to see.

In the 2:05 trot, which takes place on Friday, there will be seven entries, all of which are among the best trotters in the west. Two carloads of trotters and pacers arrived this morning, and by Monday the Waukegan, superlative or speed, will be obliged to erect extra stables to take care of the late comers. For any further information ask the "rail birds."

MORRIS MILLER

As the curtain is about to descend on big league baseball for this season, and perhaps for the duration of the war we glance again at the American league batting averages and say—

It's still there, kind again.
The race to the top is being won by Cobb. He's batting around .335, but 40 points ahead of Burns of the Muckmen. Speaker, Slater, Baker and all those other big leaguers. They came here before the show's over it he bats the size of his hat.

Six weeks ago Ty was batting to keep his place above the .300 mark, and the fans were debating whether the better would go to George Sisler, Babe Ruth or some less notable player. Then Tyris began to hit.

He can take a slump and still have enough to win the batting championship by a good margin.

Ty has the habit of finishing strong, and it will not be surprising if he climbs above the .400 mark before the season ends. He has been well above that mark since he began his sport some weeks ago.

The battles of today are reminiscent of the battles of old, and the great card has the names of Tommie Leach and Babe Adams about them. Both of the famous veterans are warming the bench.

"There will be enough players outside of the draft age limits to carry on baseball next year," says William J. Clynch, noted minor league manager now with the Giants. "But it may be necessary to change the major leagues because of the excessive railroad and Pullman rates. It might be a good plan to group the best players in the eastern and western circuits. In the east, for instance, you could have Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Toronto and Buffalo. A good league in the west could be formed to include Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Louisville, and Indianapolis. The railroad jumps in both leagues would be a great help, and the players' salaries could be greatly reduced. A world's series in the fall between the pennant winners might be a big event."

The plan is worthy of consideration by the big league moguls.

Marty Kavanaugh, who was signed up a few days ago by Hugh Jennings, surely has had his ups and downs in baseball. Kavanaugh was released by Detroit to Cleveland last season, and released in turn by the Indians to a minor league club of Class B. He returned to report and played to the close of the 1917 season with a semi-pro club of Detroit.

But Kavanaugh volunteered his services as an athletic director at one of the big army camps in the south.

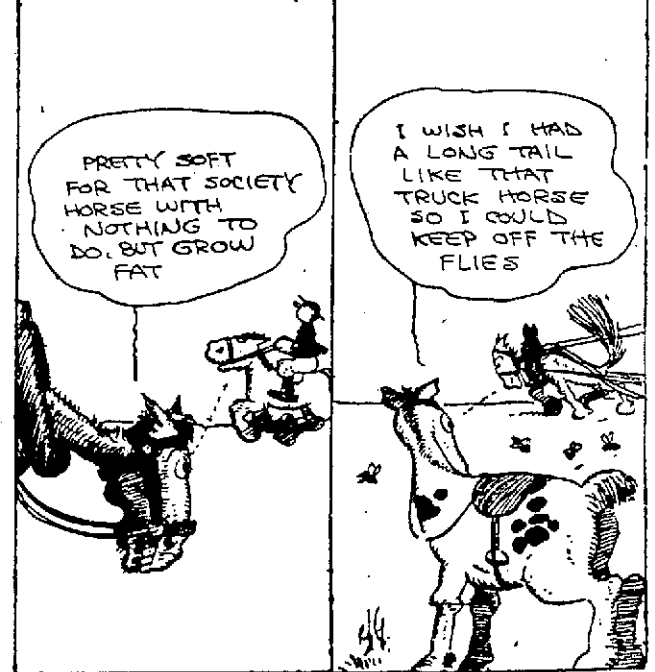

IT'S ALL WRONG, CLAUDE, IT'S ALL WRONG.

Side Lights On the Circus Business

(By D. W. Watt.)

To one who has been in the business, the arrival and the work of unloading and putting up the big show this season is of more than ordinary interest. On account of the shortage of help, every one around the shows are now doing work of all kinds. The manager, the assistant director and all performers are expected to be on the job as soon as the show arrives in town. Many of these people are wearing overalls to work in, for the first time in many years. In many towns it is only possible to get the show up in time to give two performances and impossible in many cases to give a parade. In Rockford with the great Ringling show, Fred Worrel, manager, John Ages, Equestrian director, Joe Miller, manager of properties, and many other heads of departments were among the hardest workers on the job and although they could not give a parade, they corralled the cages and put up side walls around and erected the main entrance and it was then that all hands turned to the big top where the performance was to be given, and at just 2:30 it was possible for them to open the doors and at 3:15 John Ages, Equestrian director blew his whistle for the first time and the great show was on. The one great drawback of that week was the long hauls from where the show was unloaded on the railroad to the show grounds. In Milwaukee on Monday, Madison, Tuesday, Rockford Wednesday, all these were from three to four miles from where the shows were unloaded on the railroad. The big heavy teams had to make two trips it made from 14 to 16 miles that each of these teams had to travel. While with these big shows there were many old timers who had been in the business for years and are always loyal to the close of the season, and yet what is known as the "floaters" with the show who worked hard in the hot sun, this class of working people were short lived, and when it comes to hustling and getting up the big show, one old timer is worth more than three green ones, because they are ever so willing. All of the big shows are experiencing the same trouble, late into town and late getting out. The Ringling show from Rockford to Clinton, Iowa, while this was not an extra long run, the show runs in four sections and daylight had commenced to show before the last section pulled out of Rockford and as this section carried most of the sleepers and as they lay in the railroad yards nearly all night, many of the people could get but little sleep on account of the terrible heat and under these conditions it is not strange that people known in the business as "floaters" only last a few days. The service flag on the Ringling show which bears 340 stars, shows that this number have either enlisted or been drafted since we entered the war.

George Donahue, an acrobatic clown and one of the victims of the Hagenbeck & Wallace circus wreck, is near death at St. Margaret's hospital, following an operation which disclosed the spinal cord to be so badly injured that recovery is thought impossible. Donahue is the plaintiff in a $100,000 damage suit, filed against the Michigan Central railroad for personal injuries received in the wreck. All Janesville hearts and heads of grown-up hearts were hitting on all six cylinders yesterday. The day had no special significance in its name, but it was a Red Letter occasion for those endowed with the spirit of eternal youth.

It will be Circus Day!

The big Al G. Burtch street parade in the morning whetted appetites for the Friday matinee. Old and young with mouths agape, viewed with wonder the wild animals of the menagerie, the trained elephants and sea lion performances at 2 and 8 p. m. Friday.

A short time ago the Showmen's League of America opened a subscription list to raise money for a monument to be placed in the Showmen's League burial grounds at Woodlawn cemetery in Chicago. This monument will have a base of something like 200 square and 30 ft. high and on the top there will be an image of an elephant. The monument will be placed near the grave of the late president of the league, John E. Varian and many others who lost their lives in the wreck of the Hagenbeck-Wallace show a few weeks ago. The monument will cost somewhere between $25,000 and $30,000 and the way the different shows and show people are contributing to this fund, it will not be long until the entire amount will be raised. This is a good thing to show how the showmen all over the country have shown their loyalty to the cause.

ALL STARS WILL PLAY POSTPONED GAME SUNDAY

The local All Stars will engage in their 21st game of the season, Sunday, when they will cross bats with the Albany team at Bailey's diamond. This is the postponed game of last Sunday and a large crowd of All Star boosters are expected to turn out. The batteries for Albany will be Eldred and Croake, while the All Stars will have Crowley on the receiving end and Bick on the pitcher's slab.

This season he rejoined Cleveland, was released to the minors, picked up by the St. Louis Cardinals and then sent to the minors again. Now Jennings has picked him up again.

Poor hitting was the cause of his numerous releases, but he has been walked three times in his six games with the Tigers because runners were within scoring distance when he toed the plate.

JOE CANTILLON IS GOING TO FRANCE

Veteran Manager Of Minneapolis A. Club Will Enter Service As K. C. Or Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

Joe Cantillon, manager of the Minneapolis club of the American association, and a former Janesville boy, is going to war, either as a K. C. or

Y. M. C. A. secretary. The veteran ball player recently applied for duty overseas with one of these organizations and receiving a favorable reply, will probably be called for service in a short time.

Cantillon is one of the most well liked men in the league. For nine years he managed the Minneapolis club and was able to get two pennants for the Flour city. He was one of the scrappiest leaders in the association, being practically on a par with Derby Dan Clymer of the Louisville Colonels. During the last two or three years his club has been in the second division most of the time. Joe is deserving of credit and praise for his action. Despite the fact that he is far from being in the prime of life he is willing to take the chance merely to help the good cause along. He is the first American association official to apply for service of this kind.

Organize Council

Milwaukee.—Voting to organize the Wisconsin Dairy Council, to be incorporated under the state laws, and to be nondividend paying, about 150 of the leading dairymen of the state united for the purpose of promoting the dairy industry in Wisconsin, at a meeting Wednesday.

The purpose of the new council is to further educate the public regarding the necessity of dairy products, to encourage an adequate production of milk, butter and cheese, and to improve marketing methods and conditions in Wisconsin. The meeting was presided over by A. J. Glover, Fort Atkinson, and was called at the request of the State Council of Defense.
